Dear Friends,

"From what we get, we can make a living; what we give, however, makes a life," Arthur Ashe. Many of us love our jobs. I know that I do. I love seeing the difference one person can make to a family by hammering a nail in a wall or hanging a piece of vinyl siding. I love seeing the difference that can be made when a group of volunteers come together to pray before beginning a day's work. Those little acts of kindness are what make a life. This selfless giving of time and talent is why Habitat homes are still being built 28 years after two kind women saw the need for affordable housing in the Wiregrass. Their giving is why over 150 families have been served through new construction and rehabilitated homes. Their passion for affordable housing is why over 150 homeowners have been served through critical home repair and weatherization. With you, affordable housing in the Wiregrass is possible. Thank you.
