

Dear Friends,

So often it's the random, unexpected acts that make the most lasting impression. To you, it's random and small. You may not remember it in a week or even a few days. To the one you do it for, it is something that will stick with them the rest of their life. I was having dinner with my cousin one night when a stranger paid for our meal. When we turned to thank her, she told us that she had just received orders for deployment. She was in the Army. She was so proud to be serving her country that she wanted to do something for someone. Although that has been years, I have never forgotten that and often wondered what happened to her. I am sure she doesn't remember paying for dinner for two complete strangers. But it inspired me to random acts of kindness. That's what your random act of kindness with your servant heart can do. That one act can lead to many acts by many people. "I expect to pass through this world but once; any good thing therefore that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now; let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again,” Stephen Grellet.
